

The National TSA Conference

The national TSA conference provides a venue for middle and high school students to showcase their STEM skills through competition, develop leadership aptitude and participate in social activities. Anticipated attendance at the 2014 national conference includes 5,000 student members, adult advisors and parents.

Highlights of the conference include:

- Over 60 STEM competitions for middle and high school students.
- Election of the national TSA officer team.
- Leadership training and recognition.
- General sessions which include an exciting keynote speaker, awards and recognition, and a business meeting.
- Special interest sessions featuring educators and industry leaders.
- TSA/VEX robotics competition. (additional fee)
- Social activities provide a networking opportunity for students to make friends from other parts of the country.
- An awards session on the last day where students receive competition recognition. Trophies (top three) and pins (top ten) are presented based on competition results.

Looking for a way to attract qualified engineering school applicants? The national TSA conference is the perfect venue!

As a TSA TEAMS host, your university is invited to participate in a student recruitment opportunity to be held at the national TSA conference in Washington D.C., on June 29, 2014 from 1:00 pm to 5:00 pm.

The national TSA conference will host over 800 rising high school juniors and seniors at the 2014 national conference. These students come to participate in over 60 STEM competitions held each year at the conference and many are already targeting engineering as their career of choice.

This TSA TEAMS host opportunity includes:

- A complimentary information table at the four hour "Meet and Greet" on June 29, 2014. The "Meet and Greet" provides a venue for educational institutions, vendors and student officer candidates to showcase their programs, products or election platforms.
- Two complimentary conference registrations for those manning your table.
- A complimentary quarter page ad in the TSA conference program guide. This pocket size (4" x 8 1/2") booklet is provided at registration to the anticipated 5,000 conference participants.
- An interest session during the conference (no AV or electricity provided).
- An invitation to help judge the TEAMS national competitions.

There is no charge for participating in this opportunity, however all expenses including travel, lodging and meals are the responsibility of those attending.

All conference activities will be held at the Gaylord National Resort & Convention Center in National Harbor, Maryland.

Please complete and return the TEAMS host registration form to secure your complimentary conference registration. Please contact Cindy Donahue at cdonahue@tsaweb.org or toll free at 888/860-9010 with any questions.
